

What a model says under pressure and what its code does come apart.

Each layer audits the other: together they caught two measurement faults before they shipped as findings.